About Scott Schara

SCOTT SCHARA is a nationally-recognized commentator on healthcare incentives and the dangers of the American medical system. Following the death of his 19-year-old daughter, Grace, who had Down syndrome and died at St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Appleton, Scott has dedicated himself to exposing what he believes are systemic failures and advocating for accountability. He has appeared on hundreds of television, radio, and podcast programs, hosts Deprogramming With Grace's Dad, and is the author of the book Is the Government Legally Killing Us? His story and research have also been featured in bestselling books and publications nationwide.
